ROBERT CHARLES WINTHROP (1809-1894-) The oration of 1839 was delivered at the Broadway Tabernacle, by Mr. Winthrop of Boston. The speaker was a New Englander of the New Englanders, a descendant both of the Governor of his name in Massachusetts and of Governor Winthrop of Connecticut. Since 1834 Mr. Winthrop had been a member of the legislature of his state, and in this year had been elected to Congress. Later he was to serve as Speaker of the House, and, for a few months, as successor in the Senate to Mr. Webster. When invited to New York for this anniversary, however, he was only on the eve of his career as the able, conservative leader, but his gifts as an orator were known, and for occasional addresses he was in wide demand then as throughout the period of marked public life and the years of...
