Gleeson s hardboiled fiction paints characters who live in swirling cesspools of corrupt human nature in a rich, distinct voice that s not to be missed. -- David Cranmer, editor of BEAT to a PULP Paul F. Gleeson was a successful Chicago lawyer who died in 2012, at the age of 70. He was also my father. Among his belongings we found a boxful of typed manuscripts from the 1970s and 80s. It turned out they were short stories he had written. These were great stories in the pulp fiction tradition, tales of crime and punishment, and strange characters committing dark deeds. Also in the box were rejection letters from publishers. Dad was unable to get past the literary gatekeepers of those days. Discouraged, he stuck to his day job, and gave up his dream of entertaining the readers of America. The stories sat, unread, for three decades in a dusty heap. But my sister, my two brothers, and I are making his dream come true now. We are finally sharing these...
